

Government to Set Up Nine 'Lau Centers'

WASHINGTON — Applications for funding toward the establishment of general assistance center Type B, otherwise known as the "Lau Centers," are now being accepted, the Office of Education of the Federal Department of Health, Education, and Welfare (HEW) announced on March 28.

The purpose of the centers is to "aid public schools during the period July 1, 1975 through June 30, 1976 in resolving desegregation problems directly relating to English language deficiencies of non-English dominant minority group students." In other words, HEW is attempting to assist local school districts in meeting the requirements of the United States Supreme Court decision (Lau v. Nichols) which calls for effective participation of limited English-speaking students in the educational process.

It should be pointed out that the "Lau Centers" are not to aid public schools in resolving other problems related to desegregation process, such as problems related to race and sex discrimination.

EQUAL

On January 23, the Office for Civil Rights asked the chief state school officer of twenty-six states to help assure that some 333 school districts are providing equal educational opportunity to Spanish-surnamed, American Indian, Asian American and other national minority students. In his letter to these state officers Peter E. Holmes, Director of OCR, said that the Supreme Court decided in Lau v. Nichols "that the failure of the school system to provide special assistance to students who do not speak English denies them a meaningful opportunity to participate in public educational programs and thus violates . . . Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964."

Holmes asked for a coordinated state and federal approach in gathering information needed to determine whether the school districts are meeting their Title VI responsibilities. All 333 school districts were given "Lau forms" for gathering such information to see if they are in compliance.

FUNDS

Since most school districts are not likely to be in compliance, and since most do not have the technical expertise to bring themselves into compliance, the "Lau Centers," of which there will be nine throughout the country, are designed to provide the district with the necessary assistance. Funds for the "Lau Centers" are being provided through Title VI of the 1964 Civil Rights Act. Special requirements and guidelines for the "Lau Centers" were published March 17 in the Federal Register.

The Lau Centers will be located in the following nine areas:

1. Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.
2. Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Washington D.C., Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Kentucky, Tennessee, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, and Florida.
3. Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Missouri, Kansas, Iowa, and Nebraska.
4. Texas, Louisiana, & Arkansas.
5. Montana, North Dakota, South Dakota, Wyoming, Colorado, Utah, and Oklahoma.
6. New Mexico, Arizona, and Nevada.
7. Southern California.
8. Northern California.
9. Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Alaska, Hawaii, Guam, the Trust Territories of the Pacific Islands and American Samoa.

DIFFERENT

Total funding will be around $3.7 million for fiscal 1975. However, funding for each area will be different. For instance, the expected funding level for Southern California is between $600,000 and $800,000 while that for Northern California is $475,000 to $575,000.

According to the Office of Education, there are approximately 5 million limited English-speaking students in the United States. Major groups affected include Spanish-speaking, Chinese-speaking, Tagalog-speaking, Korean, Italian, Portuguese, and various Indian groups. It appears that the distribution of these centers is based on the concentration of the various language groups. In which case, Center 1 will be predominantly Puerto Rican, but with significant numbers of Chinese, Italians, and French origin. Centers 4, 6 and 7 will be predominantly Spanish-speaking. Centers 5 and 6 will have significant numbers of Indians. Lastly, centers 7, 8 and 9 will have substantial numbers of Asians.

Tung Pi-wu Is Dead at 90

PEKING—Tung Pi-wu, vice chairman of the standing committee of the National People's Congress of China, died in Peking after a brief illness at 90 on April 2.

Tung was a founder of the Chinese Communist Party. He had held high party and government posts since the establishment of the People's Republic. Before the Cultural Revolution, he and Madame Soong Ching Ling were vice chairmen of the state. After the ousting of chairman Liu Shao-chi, Tung served as the acting chairman for many years.

When the title of chairman of state was abolished at the Fourth People's Congress held in January of this year, Tung was elected as the vice chairman of the standing committee of the Congress.

Tung was one of the delegates representing China to sign the United Nations charter in San Francisco in 1946.

ing civil sanctions on employers who employ them, was introduced January 14, 1975, in the 94th Congress, jointly by Rep. Peter W. Rodino (D-N.J.), Chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, and Rep. Joshua Eilberg (D-PA.), Chairman of the House Judiciary Subcommittee on Immigration.

Both Congressmen Rodino and Eilberg have been actively interested in immigration legislation for a number of years and their sponsorship and support for the bill will bear tremendous weight. In a joint press conference, both cited the alleged impact of illegal employment of aliens on the nation's faltering economy and the need for immediate legislation.

PROMPT ATTENTION

Due to its alleged impact on the nation's economy and the publicity the current administration has generated in its support, the bill will undoubtedly receive prompt attention. In fact, on February 4, 1975, only one day after the Subcommittee on Immigration was organized, hearings were commenced on it.

H.R. 982, the so-called "sanctions" bill, would make it unlawful for any employer, agent, or referrer of employment to knowingly employ, continue to employ, or refer for employment any alien who has not been lawfully admitted for permanent residence, unless such employment is authorized by the Attorney General.

3-STEP PENALTY

The bill would impose a three-step penalty procedure upon an offending employer, agent, or referrer of employment. First, a warning citation would be issued by the Attorney General informing the offending employer, agent, or referrer of an apparent violation. A second offense within two years of the first citation would authorize the Attorney General to assess a civil penalty of not more than $500.00 for each alien with respect to whom the violation occurs. A violation subsequent to the assessment of the civil penalty would expose the offender to a criminal conviction with a maximum punishment of a $1,000 fine and one-year imprisonment for each violation.

The bill, as presently drafted, would stipulate that an employer, agent, or referrer shall not be deemed to have violated the law if he has made a bona fide inquiry as to whether the employee is a citizen or an alien, and if an alien, if he is lawfully admitted for permanent residence. The bill would also provide that they can demonstrate presumptive proof of a bona fide inquiry by procuring a signed statement from the employee.

Chiang Is Dead In Taipei at 87

TAIPEI—President Chiang Kai-shek died of a heart attack at 11:50 p.m. April 5. He was 87.

Vice President C.K. Yen took the oath of the presidential office April 6.

Chiang had not been well since he developed pneumonia in July, 1972. He had remained secluded since then, turning over most duties to his son, Premier Chiang Ching-kuo, who is 65.

Young Chiang submitted his resignation to a special meeting of the Nationalist Party April 6 pleading the necessity for mourning. His request, which is considered customary, was denied.

His will, which urged the continuing fight against communism and the recovery of mainland China, was signed March 29 and witnessed by his wife, son, and six others.

Chiang joined Dr. Sun Yat-sen's revolutionary movement while he was studying at a Japanese Military Academy. After Dr. Sun's death, Chiang took over effective control of the Nationalist party and the government. He led an expedition in the 1920's to crush the warlords and to consolidate power of the Central Government. Since then, he had been challenged by the growing communist movement which finally drove him to Taiwan twenty-six years ago.

Hospital Board Members Voted 11-4 For Clinic

SAN FRANCISCO—The fifteen member organizations which comprise the Chinese Hospital board have voted 11-4 in favor of the out-patient clinic project.

The eleven "yes" votes were cast by the YMCA, the Chinese American Citizens Alliance (CACA), the Chinese Christian Union, the Chamber of Commerce, the Chinese Constitutionalist Party, and the Yan Wo, Hop Wo, Shew Hing, Young Wo, Sam Yup and Kong Chow Associations.

The four "no" votes were cast by the Chinese Consolidated Benevolence Association (Six Companies), the Nationalist Party (KMT), the Ning Yung Association, and Chee Kung Tong (Chinese Free Masons).

The Hospital board of directors have voted 9 to 6 March 19 to proceed with construction of the long delayed $5.4 million out-patient clinic adjacent to the existing hospital building at 634 Jackson Street.

However, the board referred back to the member organizations for a ratification vote and stipulated that two-thirds majority must be reached before the project can proceed. The board now has that vote.

EDITORIAL

“NO” ON H.R. 982

The passage of H.R. 982, the so-called “sanctions” bill introduced by Congressmen Rodino and Eilberg, would be a disaster according to many immigration workers. Many consider it to be a public approval of private discriminatory tendencies. This bill could encourage some employers to discriminate against Americans who resemble aliens. Affirmative action hiring of minority applicants would then be greatly set back.

The Chinese for Affirmative Action, Chinese Newcomers Service, and the Immigration Law Project of the San Francisco Neighborhood Legal Assistance Foundation are cooperating to bring the community's attention to this proposed bill.

We urge our readers to write their congressmen and ask for a “no” vote on this bill.

MAKE IT UNANIMOUS

Although the member organizations of the Chinese Hospital board have finally voted 11 to 4 to ratify the out-patient clinic project, we caution the community not to be overjoyed with this result, at least not yet.

Whenever the community faces a critical issue, there seems to be many negative forces at work. These forces will interpret their defeat as face-losing personal disgrace. They could try to reverse the decision, by hook or by crook.

There are many persons hard at work to bring this project to fruition, and we should be grateful for their efforts and contributions. However, we should always consider the project as the community's collective gain, not a personal victory. There is but one hospital in our community. It has no room for cliquish intrigues nor personality conflicts.

Since the board already has a two-thirds majority to go ahead with the project, we urge the dissenting members to change their votes and make it a unanimous decision.

‘LAU’ CENTERS

The Office of Education of HEW is now accepting applications for funding to establish the so-called “Lau Centers” throughout the nation.

We feel that there is a need for a center set up especially for the Chinese. And since San Francisco does have a high concentration of Chinese Americans, the center should be located in this area.

We urge Chinese Americans to send their comments to the Office of Education, Room 2085, 500 Maryland Avenue, S.W., Washington, D.C. 20202.

PRESS COMMENTS

KGO RADIO EDITORIAL

Bickering Stops Here

(The following is a KGO Radio editorial which had been broadcast twelve times on April 1 and 2.)

San Francisco's Chinatown faces a public health crisis. This second-most congested urban area in the nation has the highest per capita TB rate, a heavy proportion of aged and indigent ill—and exactly 60 hospital beds.

There are 80,000 Chinese-Americans in this city. Seventy per cent of their public health needs are not met.

Expansion of the obsolete Chinese Hospital has been blocked by a series of bitter disputes between rival factions for four years. Now a $5,000,000 outpatient clinic can be financed almost entirely by federal grants and loans.

But two-thirds of the fifteen family, civic and district groups concerned must vote to approve the clinic by April 15, or those funds are lost.

The need is evident and it is immense.

KGO urges the opposing forces to merge their differences quickly. A unanimous “Yes” vote for the new clinic will serve the urgent public interest.

Cultural Exchanges

(The following editorial entitled “Now, now, Mr. Mao” was printed in the Christian Science Monitor April 3.)

We don't blame China for trying to sneak a bit of propaganda into the program of a troupe of Chinese entertainers scheduled for an American tour. But the National Committee on United States-China Relations sponsoring the visit and the State Department properly objected to inclusion of a song expressing determination “to liberate Taiwan.” Peking's refusal to drop the number led to cancellation of the tour.

Cultural exchanges with Communist countries necessarily have a political dimension. But politicizing a cultural event in this instance would have been sharply provocative to domestic audiences and contrary to the purpose of such exchanges and the spirit of the Shanghai communique.

While regrettable, the postponement of the tour is not likely to affect the overall exchange program. An American track and field team is soon bound for China and a Chinese archeological exhibit drew record crowds in Washington and will open next in Kansas City.

But the incident raises questions about the state and future of Sino-American exchanges generally. According to the Shanghai communique, these are supposed to be reciprocal and mutually beneficial. Yet the U.S. does not fully enjoy such reciprocity. Chinese periodicals, for instance (many of which make a point about the liberation of Taiwan), circulate freely in American bookstores. But American journals have no access to Chinese markets.

It is now more than three years since former President Nixon first journeyed to Peking, and if the Sino-American relationship is to develop (as we hope it will) there will have to be a greater spirit of give and take, a broadening and deepening of exchanges beyond the mere swap of occasional delegations. American scholars, for instance, would like to be able to study in China for periods of time, and certainly there is no problem about Chinese attending U.S. universities.

Realistically, we see no progress in these directions until the Taiwan question is disposed of. That means things will go along as they are for the foreseeable future. In the meantime, Americans are right to hold their ground as Peking occasionally tries to probe the limits of their tolerance.

WRITERS' CONFERENCE

To East/West:

Thank you for your coverage on the First Asian American Writers' Conference.

Many people outside the Bay Area heard about the event through East/West. Many registered as a result.

You are performing a community service.

You are also performing a community dis-service by covering the Autobiography Panel Saturday and letting Jade Snow Wong's assertion that Asian or Chinese stories are interesting to publishers stand unchallenged.

The facts are that certain sugar-coated sojourner writers are embraced by the white establishment publishers while those who write in the genuine language, style, and rhythms of Asian Americans are rejected by those same white publishers.

Ben Fong-Torres' story simply needed more balance. Monica Sone, Hisaye Yamamoto, Wakako Yamuchi, Emily Cachapero, Frank Chin, Shawn Wong, Lawson Inada, and Janice Mirikitani are all far superior writers with richer and more stirring stories.

Yet they can't get published by Harper & Row, or Doubleday or some other publisher or major house.

Only Howard University Press, a black publisher, and Yardbird, a Berkeley publishing cooperative, have responded to the voices of our great yellow writers. Ben could recall that Rolling Stone was the only major publication, emanating from the Bay Area, to review AIII-EEEEEE!. The Chronicle, the Examiner, the Tribune, all rejected reviews of the anthology of Asian American literature.

No, you can't be Asianed out by publishers if you mimic the ornamental oriental twinkies who continue to spew sweet'n'sour hootchie-kootchie from their Human Bean Brains.

Christopher Chow
Conference Coordinator

(We believe that East/West can best serve the community by offering divergent viewpoints. We also believe that Jade Snow Wong has made a contribution in her era and in her own way. Asian-American writers' anger at the publishers is understandable, but need not be leveled at other writers.)

We appreciate BenFong-Torres' coverage of the event. Ed.)

East/West recently received a number of letters to the editor regarding the content of various articles that appeared in the paper. While E/W welcomes and encourages a diversity of views and opinions, E/W requests that letter writers include their names and addresses so that letters may be authenticated before publication.

VIET ORPHANS

To East/West:

I read about the objections of six Bay Area professors' objecting to the Vietnam Orphan Airlift in the April 4 San Francisco Chronicle. I agree with them wholeheartedly. The children should be left alone in their natural habitat.

If our actions were based on morals, we should think of those who might be killed if left behind and captured. They are the leaders of the Saigon regime, the upper class, and those who worked for us, the Americans. They are the ones whom we should be concerned with and should airlift to the United States as refugees. However, we are not conscious of their precarious future.

ARCHAEOLOGICAL TREASURES

To East/West:

...The Chinese Club of Greater Kansas City has over 200 adult members, plus children, which is rather large for here. The lunar dinner was attended by over 250 people including guests.

Perhaps because of the small number of Chinese people in this area there seems little awareness among the non-Chinese of the great historical and cultural background of China and her people. This Exhibition of the Chinese Archaeological Treasures is creating great interest here. The Gallery-sponsored lectures, on the background of China and the finding of the artifacts, have been attended by overflow audiences.

It's undoubtedly mind-boggling for some to give up that old stereotyped notion of China as a land of concubines, coolies and "Confucius say ...". The Exhibit is an impressive array of artifacts over 2,000 years old (before the birth of Jesus) and not primitive nor crude, but as elegant and artistic as anything contemporary. For those who vaguely place China in the nebulous, mystic and barbaric Orient, to be faced with the facts that these people were using fine porcelain, casting beautiful bronzes, weaving and wearing soft textiles and, even cutting, fitting and sewing squares of jade into suits as modern-looking as a space outfit, while much of the western world was wearing unfitted animal skins and eating with their fingers, must seem a revelation too astounding to be immediately absorbed.

It would seem this Exhibition with its promotion and literature will do much in the way of education, and for this alone all Chinese people should benefit.

BATTLE TO UNIONIZE RESTAURANT CONTINUES

Mandarin Restaurant workers and strike supporters demonstrate on the evening of March 29. (Connie Hwang Photo)

By JUDY YUNG

SAN FRANCISCO—Employees at the Mandarin Restaurant in Ghirardelli Square voted for unionization November 22 last year, but if owner Cecilia Sun Yun Chiang (called "Dragon Lady" by one employee) has her way, the Mandarin will not become the first unionized Chinese restaurant.

Delaying the signing of a labor contract with the Dining Room Employees Local No. 9 is a series of charges and appeals filed with the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB).

Objections to employee and union conduct during the November election were filed by Chiang. The NLRB regional director dismissed 10 of the 12 charges. Chiang then appealed to the NLRB offices in Washington D.C., who two weeks ago upheld all but two of the charges. A hearing has not been set to hear the two remaining charges.

NLRB Judge Jerrold Shapiro ruled last month that the Mandarin illegally fired waiter William Meng for his union organization activities and ordered that the restaurant rehire him with back pay. He also ordered the restaurant to cease its anti-union activities. Chiang has appealed this decision to Washington D.C.

APPEAL

Of the four employees fired after the November election, the NLRB regional director has ruled that there is insufficient evidence to show discrimination in the firings. The union is appealing the decision to Washington, D.C. The suspension of a fifth employee after the election is still being investigated by NLRB.

An injunction imposed by a San Francisco Supreme Court judge limiting pickets at the Mandarin to three at 15 feet apart is being appealed by the union to the District Court of Appeals.

Union attorney Alan Davis sees these legal procedures as state and federal bureaucracy that interferes with the employee's free expression of wanting union support and representation. He said that the longer the delay, the more money the employer will make.

Obviously, he added, the daily picketing of the restaurant is not hurting business; otherwise, the employer would be ready and willing to negotiate with the union by now.

CONDITIONS

According to restaurant workers, most of whom are Chinese immigrants, what is at issue is not so much the wages, which were raised to the State minimum of $2-hr. last year, but the working conditions—no job security, paid holidays, disability insurance, retirement benefits, overtime pay, sick leave or rest periods, and poor medical insurance.

"We're not treated like humans," said Meng. "When the boss gets mad, she yells at us and throws dishes. It's especially bad when the whole restaurant can hear her."

Meng said that many of them are forced to work overtime with no overtime pay. The average work week for the full-timers is nine hours a day, six days a week, he said. He has worked 10 to 12 hours without a break and has been scolded for sitting down on the job, even though business was slack at that moment.

PICKETING

Awaiting a decision from Washington D.C. on his employment status with the restaurant, Meng, in the meantime, is busy picketing, talking to fellow employees, and publicizing the labor dispute. Last Saturday evening, he drew 75 supporters and employees to demonstrate at the Mandarin with signs, shouts, and short speeches. However, the police prevented the group from effectively picketing the restaurant's entrance.

Meng said the conditions at the Mandarin are similar to those faced by immigrants with limited English proficiency in other Chinese restaurants. "If we succeed," he said, "it will affect other Chinese restaurants and be a significant event for all Chinese."

In an interview with "The San Francisco Bay Guardian" (12-4-74), Chiang refused to comment on charges made by her employees about working conditions at the Mandarin. "It's very complicated, some Communists or somebody just trying to organize against us."

She also said that unions are not necessary, because "the Chinese people want to be like a big family." She feels she will be considered a traitor if her restaurant becomes the first Chinese restaurant to join the union.

Bruce Lee Film Auditions Begin

LOS ANGELES—A world-wide talent search has been announced to choose a young man to portray Bruce Lee in a forthcoming motion picture, "Bruce Lee/His Life and Legend." The first auditions will be conducted at the Burbank Studios on Monday, April 14, at 8:00 a.m.

Candidates are expected to be skilled in the martial-arts, to come to the auditions with photos and background material and to be "dressed in gis." Following the Los Angeles try-outs, the search will move to New York, Chicago, Hong Kong and London. The West Coast efforts are being concentrated in L.A., San Francisco and San Diego.

The runners-up in the talent search will be given other roles in the film, according to an announcement by Phil Feldman, president of First Artists Production Co. Ltd. The film will be produced and directed by Robert Clouse and the executive producers are Jon Peters and Martin Erlichman. Since there are many roles to be cast, the auditions are open to all races.

Judges of the talent competition are: Mrs. Bruce Lee; Robert Clouse; Chuck Norris, martial-arts champion and instructor; Pat Johnson martial arts champion and instructor; and Dick Hennessey, publisher of Black Belt and Fighting Stars magazines, according to a press release from Warner Bros. Inc. in Burbank.

CHINESE WORD-A-DAY

"SMALL TABLE"

This word looks like a little table—a little tea table or a coffee table, and it is. The difficulty in teaching Chinese is that some of the words are so clear and simple that pupils can learn them without the teachers' tedious lectures. In fact, I am beginning to suspect that some teachers deliberately make the language sound difficult and unreasonable so the pupils have to depend on them forever. But as a teacher of the Chinese language I hope I am not this way. I am very anxious to teach you everything so that you may go out and teach others. If you visit my classes, I will show you all the exits before I show you your seat.

Once a musician was showing off in the street. At first he attracted many on-lookers, so he sat down on a chair, borrowed a small table and began to perform. The people soon found out that he was a third rate player playing a third rate tune on a third rate instrument. They all left but one.

The musician fumbled for a while and finally looked up to the gallery of one and said,

"I'm glad that there is at least someone in the world who appreciates good music."

The man just stared at him for a while. Finally he said,

"If I were not waiting for my small table you are using, I would have been gone umpteen dynasties ago."

Asian Scholars Hear Taiwan Youth Problems

SAN FRANCISCO—Taiwan may suffer serious consequences in the future if prospects for the emerging generation of Mainlanders do not improve.

This was the opinion conveyed by Prof. Wei Yung of Stanford and Memphis State University at the 27th Annual Meeting of the Association for Asian Studies in San Francisco on March 24, according to a report on Asian Students.

Prof. Wei said, "Preliminary investigations of data on racial, pro-communist Chinese student activities in the United States have shown that the majority of the radical students who are demanding unification of Taiwan with Mainland China are from the Mainlander group."

UNEQUAL

The report stated that many of the young Mainlanders are disaffected by the unequal political and economic conditions which generally favor the more affluent Taiwanese.

Certain evidence indicates the increasing ascendancy of Taiwanese over the new generation of Mainlanders in areas of politics and business.

There are greater numbers of Taiwanese at all levels of the government today while the eminence and participation of young Mainlanders are decreasing.

Prof. Wei noted that the Mainlanders today cannot meet the support or resources necessary for a successful campaign at almost any level.

EXCHANGE

To alleviate the social tension Prof. Wei suggested a "gradual but persistent exchange of values" between them "with the former receiving an increasing share of political power and the latter an enlarged share of the economic base."

On another subject, Prof. Meisner of the University of Wisconsin said, "The thoughts of Mao Tse Tung or at least his thoughts about the future, are incongruous with utopian thought, and with the main currents of both traditional and modern Chinese thought."

Prof. Meisner indicated that peace and order are the ingredients of orthodox utopian vision, but "Mao is opposed in principle to any conception of a future characterized by the absence of conflict; indeed as a matter of both philosophic and political principle, he is hostile to even a search for a harmonious and united society."

In propounding permanent revolution, Prof. Meisner stated that Mao embraced "the notion that disequilibrium is constant and absolute, whereas equilibrium is temporary and relative," and "communist society itself would be marked by a continuing process of ideological and political struggle."

CONFLICT

Prof. Meisner added that the Maoist doctrine of continuous historical conflict "implicitly rejects the Marxist vision of a historical process leading to a total revolution and a final denouement resulting in the definitive overcoming of all contradictions and antagonisms."

"Yet," conceded Prof. Meisner, "Maoism retains a powerful utopian impulse which motivates men to transform the situations in which they find themselves and to transform themselves as well."

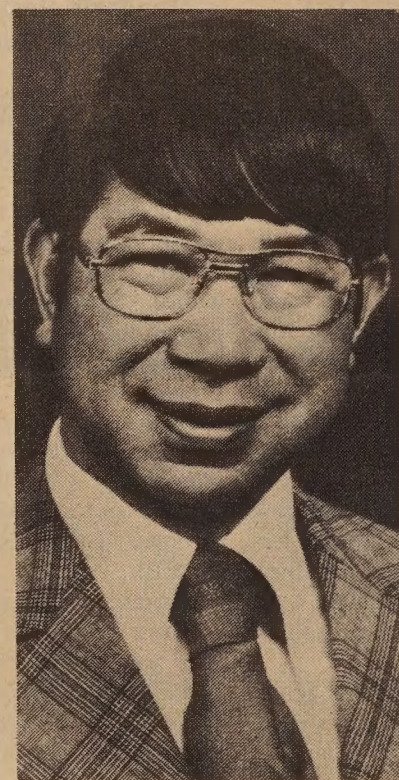

The annual meeting held between March 24-26 discussed a wide variety of historical and contemporary Asian topics.

Shadow Play Group Performs in New York

SAN FRANCISCO—New Yorkers will have a chance to see Chinese shadow plays this week.

The American Museum of Natural History of New York has invited a San Francisco group called the Enchanting Shadow Productions to perform from April 11 to 15.

Shadow play is an ancient Chinese folk art dating back to the Han Dynasty. Stories presented will include such well-known folktales as the "Moon Goddess," "Foolish Man and the Tiger" and "A Touch of Magic."

Enchanting Shadow Productions was formed by Atea Koon, Andrea Ja, Pam Ramsing and Wilma Pang a year ago. The four young Chinese Americans were all students of the late Mrs. Pauline Benton, who learned the skills of shadow play from masters in Peking before World War II. Mrs. Benton taught a workshop sponsored by the Chinese Culture Center from October 1971 to January 1972, which attracted considerable interest in the community. Shadow play, a dying folk art, had not been seen in the community for a long time until Mrs. Benton's arrival.

Each shadow figure is painstakingly made by Andrea Ja and Pam Ramsing. Experimenting with plastics, rice paper, leather, dyes and paints, they use modern techniques to capture the flavor of traditional figures which were constructed of specially treated animal skin.

This week, they will perform in New York as part of the exhibit called "Puppets: Dance and Drama of the Orient."

The Enchanting Shadow Productions will be performing at the American Museum of Natural History of New York April 11 through 15.

A spokesman of the department attributed the decline to the successful implementation of the family planning program.

According to an official estimate, 62 per cent of married women between the ages of 20 and 44 in Taiwan are taking pills or using other contraceptives.

The exhibit began last December 13 with 380 pieces of recently unearthed items on display. During the three and a half months duration, the exhibit attracted more than 680,000 visitors.

According to one source in the West Coast, the show will move to San Francisco after the Kansas City display.

"many human, geographic, and industrial resources to bring full employment to Oakland "and to help build an economic and popular base" which, according to Reyna, would "Save Our City."

He has supported inclusion of Chinatown in Redevelopment proposals, Reyna said. However, on the basis of past experience, he would recommend that Chinatown forget about redevelopment and apply for a Section 236 low-income housing project with the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

RODINO BILL COULD HURT IMMIGRANTS

Thus far, only witnesses supporting the bill have testified before the House Subcommittee. They include Deputy Attorney General Laurence Silberman and Under Secretary of Labor Richard F. Schubert, both of whom have urged stronger sanctions against employers of illegal aliens and aliens illegally employed.

Deputy Attorney General Silberman has recommended that all employers, their agents, or referrers be required to take affirmative steps to determine whether any applicant is an American citizen or an alien entitled to work. Such inquiry would require all employers, for example, to inspect a birth certificate or appropriate immigration service document for each prospective employee. An employer of an alien not authorized to work would be held liable if he fails to make such inquiries. In other words, all Americans would be required to prove their legal residence when applying for a job.

Acting Attorney General Silberman would also have substantial civil penalties in addition to possible deportation imposed against illegal aliens who accept employment.

DOMESTIC PASSPORTS

Attorney General Edward H. Levi has rejected the Justice Department recommendation that would require every alien to prove his legal residence when applying for a job. He has characterized the so-called "domestic passport" proposal as "close to a violation of something akin to a Constitutional right."

Several Congressmen have testified at the subcommittee hearings also advocating stronger sanctions.

Many community agencies and groups, including the Chinese for Affirmative Action, Chinese Newcomers Service, and the Neighborhood Legal Assistance Foundation, are cooperating to bring the Chinese American community's attention to this proposed legislation.

Dr. Raymond Eng files candidacy papers for re-election at Oakland City Hall. With him are campaign committee members Edward Brown, Woodrow Chin, Maye Lee, Mrs. Henry Chang Mrs. Young G. Lee.

RAYMOND ENG RUNS FOR COUNCILMAN

OAKLAND — The city's vice mayor, Dr. Raymond L. Eng, has announced his candidacy for re-election to the office of Oakland city councilman, District No. 3.

"This is no time for flowery words; I fully realize that Oakland and the nation face critical problems," said Eng.

"We have widespread unemployment, inflation, and an intolerable housing situation in East Oakland. Our city must be safe from crime on streets and in homes. The city's financial situation must be fiscally sound," added Eng.

He advocates stern austerity on city expenditures. He also feels that promised federal "block grants" must be allocated to ensure that all sections of the city, all age and ethnic groups, benefit according to need.

ALBERT AND RHODES VISIT PEKING

PEKING—Speaker of the House of Representatives Carl Albert and Republican House Leader John J. Rhodes arrived in Peking March 29 for a visit at the invitation of the Chinese People's Institution of Foreign Affairs.

Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping met with Albert, Rhodes and members of their party April 1.

In a press conference last week at Joe Jung's they said that there would be ten minutes of local news slotted into the programming and possibly Cantonese programming on Monday nights. TAIWAN BANANAS FOR ARAB OIL MONEY

TAIPEI — Taiwan will find ways to obtain petrodollars from Saudi Arabia for investment, said a Chinese diplomat.

Hsueh Yu-chi, newly appointed ambassador to Saudi Arabia, said his major mission will be to attract investments from that oil-rich country.

Taipei and Jidda reached agreements on three major technical cooperation projects recently. Under these agreements, Taipei is sending experts to Saudi Arabia to help build a fertilizer plant, a sugar refinery and a naphtha cracker to produce petroleum products.

Meanwhile, Saudi Arabia has ordered 300,000 cartons (36 pounds per carton) of bananas from Taiwan.

Shirley MacLaine

The 'Guerrilla Traveler's' China Trip

By RICHARD SPRINGER

(Part I of a two-part article)

The peripatetic Shirley MacLaine, who calls herself the "guerrilla traveler," winged in and out of San Francisco last Friday to talk about her new book, "You Can Get There From Here," (Norton, 249 pages, $7.95), and her television special, "A China Memoir," (KQED-TV, Channel 9, Tuesday, April 15, 8:30 to 10:30 p.m.).

She arrived, somewhat out of breath after a bout with one of San Francisco's notorious, street-ignorant cab drivers, at the KQED screening room to meet with TV critics and reporters who had just viewed a 75-minute film on her trip to China, "The Other Half of the Sky."

The film, codirected by Claudia Weill and MacLaine, will be followed on the two-hour special by a 45-minute discussion with MacLaine, other members of her women's delegation and China experts Audrey Topping and O. Edmund Clubb.

DIALOGUE

The enthusiasm engendered by her Spring, 1973 encounter with the Chinese government and her people was still much in evidence last Friday, as she seemed more intent on engaging the critics in a "China dialogue" than in plugging her book or film. She almost refused doing a "promo" for the film on KQED's "Newsroom" when it meant she would have to cut short the session with the critics.

Asked by the Chinese government not to bring a delegation of "famous" American women, MacLaine responded by gathering together a motley octet diverse enough for a demographer's stamp of approval.

There's "Unita Blackwell, a 200-pound, coal-black woman of mammoth heart, who came from Issaquena County, Mississippi," and who once had a cross burned on her lawn because she allowed MacLaine to stay at her house during the voter-registration drive during the 1960's.

MacLaine meets Madame Chou En-lai

It is Blackwell who provides the film's most emotional moments when she cries tears of happiness when a young Chinese girl presents her with a picture of two women embracing, a black and a Chinese.

Pat Branson, a 33-year-old Port Arthur George Wallace supporter comes off rather poorly in the book. MacLaine describes her as "a flirt, always dressed to kill, with a beehive of jet black hair and layers of carefully applied make-up. She had a great sense of humor, which was often directed at herself." She also refused to eat most of the Chinese food that was offered her.

Other members included a 52-year-old Puerto Rican writer, a pretty Navaho Indian who says in the film that the China experience is fine, but the Navaho nation is better. She is also shown chanting Navaho alone early one morning. There was also an impressionable 12-year-old schoolgirl from Wisconsin, a psychologist and cultural anthropologist and a Long Island conservative Republican. The seven along with MacLaine and four young women filmmakers made up the twelve women delegation.

DIVERSITY

They did not always get along, a fact which comes out more in the book than the film. The diversity of the delegation was at the same time both a strength and a weakness. Each of the women is driven back into themselves to question their own values. MacLaine told the critics last week that the film was more about her delegation's reaction to China than about China itself.

In many cases the women are not up to the task, either mentally or physically. Many of them get sick and land in the hospital or long to return to America. MacLaine told the reporters that her film crew was so crippled that she had to scale down the shooting at the end of the trip.

What is not brought out in the film is what she describes in her book as "the malaise" that spread among the women. "I realized I was consciously separating myself from the rest of the women," she says. "Gradually I began to understand that the women had never really left America."

JOKES

In Peking, the women, who had not seen American men in weeks met some American, Australian and Englishmen at the Minzu Hotel in Peking. MacLaine does not disguise her disgust at what happens to some of the women. "There were a lot of bawdy jokes about 'chinks' and laundry men, and after most of the women would leave at night to go to bed, the sound of heavy drinking and carousing continued for hours." The men were in Peking to install a new communications satellite facility. The incident, of course, is not in the film.

Very few of the women, except for Blackwell, Branson and MacLaine, have their inner feelings examined in any detail. MacLaine tells the reader that the anthropologist and the conservative Republican have brilliant or incisive minds, but their reflections are too few in the book and almost non-existent in the film. Hopefully the TV discussion will provide them a forum. After all, it is MacLaine who insists that she wanted to give a spectrum of American women a chance to experience China. Too often the film seems too much like a travelogue.

MALAISE

Another experience that is not in the film is MacLaine's own retreat into her American identity crises during an oppressive swirling dust storm in Yenan. She is alone with her guide, Chang Ching-erh, who view's first hand MacLaine's malaise. "I could see that she [Chang] considered me another spoiled American woman. Yes, China had really gotten to me, and I was not handling the experience with any more grace than the rest of the delegation had." This is a surprising and very honest admission from someone who began the China portion of her book with, "I had dreamed of China since childhood."

The few sections of the film that stand out are discussions with some of the Chinese workers about their struggle to give women an equal place in society. The title of the film, "The Other Half of the Sky," comes from a saying of Chairman Mao that "Women must have equality so that they can learn to hold up their half of the sky."

FOOT-BINDING

MacLaine is a good interviewer and she presses some of the men and women on how this is being carried out in Chinese society. An interview with some older women who describe the old foot-binding tradition of Confucius-dominated old China is well handled.

Also noteworthy in the film are an interview with Madame Chou En-lai (covered in much more detail in the book) about the role of the artist in China and a very graphic filming of a birth by Caesarian section using acupuncture anesthesia.

The discussion with the delegation reveals some of the changes in the women's lives after China. The Boston Republican, according to MacLaine, has become a socialist and is leading her own group to China. The Wallace supporter is using organizing skills of the Chinese to get Wallace elected president.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By JOHN LUM

SPEAK NOW OR FOREVER . . .

The U.S. Census Bureau, notorious for its undercounting of America's minority populations, has recently been mandated by Congress to create an Hispanic advisory council.

Asian American advocates would do well to insist immediately that the Census Bureau also form an Asian American advisory council. Besides its undercounting of minorities and the loss of resource allocations stemming from that undercounting, the Census Bureau and other governmental agencies have recently come under fire for other insensitivities.

For example, many Pilipinos feel that agencies have no right to call them "Asians" or, at other times, "Hispanics." These Pilipinos feel that they should have the right to call themselves whatever they want, not what the governmental agencies want to call them.

Then there is the case of the Korean-Americans and Samoans, who because they are summarily lumped under the term "Asian-Americans," rarely receive needed social funds because funds going to Asian Americans usually end up going only to Chinese or to Japanese agencies.

We have all heard of "the numbers game." We now have examples of "the names game." Given the example of the Hispanics and the Census Bureau, Asian Americans of all kinds should follow suit.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

The newly formed Asian-American Federal Employees Caucus (AAFEC) is fast becoming known as the "Brunch for Lunch Bunch."

It seems that whenever Asians from out of the D.C. area come into D.C., a meal is called for, whereby AAFEC members can meet with the out-of-towners. In the past few weeks, impromptu "meal meetings" were called together for Paige Barber and Mitch Matsu-daira of the Ethnic Minority Coalition of the Bicentennial Commission and for Ling-chi Wang, who was in D.C. for an Office of Civil Rights (HEW) meeting. Each of the meal meetings had over 20 persons attending.

All this goes to say that maybe AAFEC is starting a new area of study for political scientists—the politics of munching and bunching.

By the way, temporary AAFEC chairperson Gwen Wong announced that new AAFEC officers were Ford Kurimoto and Kathy Buto.

AND SPEAKING OF HEW . . .

Persons attending the Office of Civil Rights (OCR) meeting this week, mentioned above, developed guidelines for the upcoming Lau Centers (E/W 2/19/75). Persons or agencies interested in vying for Lau Center funds should ask the OCR to send them the so-called "request for proposals," slated for distribution in about two weeks.

WE'RE GETTING THERE

After 100 or so years, the SFUSD finally has an Asian in its personnel office. Naturally, this situation did not come about by normal personnel procedures. It came about by a reorganization whereby the personnel department was put together with the community relations department, which, as a matter of tokenism, had a few Asians.

So, Asian Americans, though having a toe into the personnel office, are still waiting for the day when they are officially hired only for personnel functions.

USC FILM FEST ATTRACTS CROWD

LOS ANGELES — The Asian-American Tutorial Project of the University of Southern California initiated an annual film festival for immigrated children to gain exposure to more wholesome entertainment March 8. Approximately 150 tutees and 35 tutors from Hobart, Castelar, and Solano elementary schools attended the festival's debut at the Hancock Auditorium at USC. Two short Roadrunner and Bugs Bunny cartoons, plus a feature-length movie, "Bedknobs and Broomsticks," were shown from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. After the show a free lunch was provided by the tutors. The show was emceed by George Wong.

The Project, a student-volunteer organization, is now in its sixth year of tutoring and is cur-optometry, dental, income tax, and sports clinics. Other endeavors include field trips, arts and crafts workshops, and aid to the Keiro Nursing Home in Lincoln Park.

中華民國蔣介石總

統於台北時間四月五日下午十一時五十分以心臟病逝世，享年八十七歲（有謂八十九歲）。副總統嚴家淦隨於四月六日宣誓就職繼任為總統。

蔣氏為第二次世界大戰所留下之最後一位領袖人物。曾於一九七二年染肺炎病，幾年來未有露臉，台灣方面實際政權落在他的兒子現任行政院長蔣經國手上；即使嚴家淦就任總統，這一形勢亦不會發生變化。

據官方宣佈，蔣氏遺體將於四月十六日舉行國葬儀式，台灣各娛樂場所，一律停止娛樂一個月，外交部并通知此間總領事館，亦停止社交娛樂一個月，惟辦公照常。

海外僑社，屬於國民黨及中華總會館等一系團體，都紛紛電唁，并籌組追悼會。由於蔣氏長時期控制中國政壇，所以他的逝世，對中國人來說，是一件重大的新聞，但他幾年來已不公開露臉，有什麼

重大集會，也象徵式的發表一份「書面訓詞」，所以他的逝世，對台灣政治局面不會有很大的影響。

居住在美國的華人，言論和思想都比較自由，所以除了那些和「祖國政治」有牽連者外，一般華人，意見比較中立，都承認蔣氏是中國歷史上一个重要人物。

蔣氏的遺囑，是三月廿九日草擬的，亦即是說，這份文件是在他死前一個星期寫好了，他早已準備後事，加上病了幾年，死亡是意料中事，所以不能說是一突逝。

此間華人所感興趣的是今後台灣的權力問題，蔣經國雖然實際掌握了政權，但嚴家淦繼任總統以後，會不會形成另一股勢力？而國民黨元老派在蔣氏逝世後對蔣經國的態度又如何呢？議論紛紛，但大致的看法，都認為目前的現勢，是會保持下去的。

華僑們還有一項，那是關心政治因素以外的旅遊問題，因為蔣氏之喪，台灣停止娛樂一個月，所以有些定了台灣之行的遊客，也延期前往。

董必武逝世

中華人民共和國人

民代表大會常務委員會副委員長董必武於四月二日七時五十八分在北京逝世，終年九十歲。

董氏為中共創始人之一，歷任黨國要職。文革前與宋慶齡同為國家副主席（劉少奇為主席），因年齡關係雖無負責政務，但據稱在與人和洽，故在計開中有一民的心愛戴」的一句。

劉少奇下台後，董氏曾任代理國家主席一職。今年一月人民代表大會廢去「國家主席」位置後，董被選為人大常務委員會副委員長。

董氏在第二次大戰後曾到三藩市，代表中國簽聯合國成立宣言。北京電訊稱現由毛澤東、周恩來、王洪文、鄧小平、宋慶齡等五十人組成治喪委員會云。

這裏是我一個願意不走的地方

每逢我碰上一個喜愛的島嶼或山嶺，很容易一見痴情，心裏立刻湧起了一個偉大的念頭，要把時間留住，不讓它隨風逝去，但我祇能做到把腕錶故意藏起來，一看不見那催人的秒針，便暫時有了安全感。

「看呵，太陽還很高呢。」自己說，甚至希望回程的小輪先走，「你們回去吧，我要在這裏永遠留下來……」

你去過喜靈洲沒有？這裏是一個我願意不走的地方。如此的世外桃源，想不到在香港海的羣山之中發現。

行在蜿蜒的小徑中，那種感受，使最粗心的人也要慢慢走着欣賞，首先你看見碧綠的葉叢所織成的垂天幔幕，兩旁站滿了樹幹、長春籐，好像來看巡遊的觀眾，在熱鬧中屏息，靜氣，你不妨假設自己是個鄉下的皇族，向夾道相迎的臣民點頭示意，等到你得意忘形的時候，才發覺到剛才的號角和歡呼，不過是蟬叫蟲鳴。

這一支永恆的仲夏交響樂章，也許寫作於伊甸園的那些日子，人和他的伴侶還沒有犯罪的紀錄，因為曲的旋律和感情，是那麼原始的、純真的，參加演奏的除了蟬的兒女們，還有小黃鶯、螳螂、蝴蝶、蛛蜘蛛，和一班不知名的甲蟲。

我找着了。」我驚喜地說。

嘉恩莫名其妙的問：「你找着了甚麼？」

「我找着了四十年代。」我說，思潮像山脚下澎湃的海洋，白浪沖擊着巖石，變成無數晶明的珠子，忽然綫斷了，珠子便撒滿灘頭，一輩子再也拾不起來，跟着的，是更響亮的濤聲，更高的浪跳，更多的珠子，更狼狽的泡沫。

嘉恩的困惑，一定要經過另外的二十年，才能有所領受。

我最達意的說明，算是「四十年代，我不過十來歲……」我指着天際，又說：「廣州便

在那邊，不遠，大約兩三個鐘頭的火車。」

兩父女，一個是有心，一個是無心。但這不是說時代的隔離使心曲難通，反而是宇宙不

老的頌讚，譬如一幅國畫，遠的是山，近的都是山，濃淡相襯，深淺有度。有心人啟發無心

人，無心人應召於有心人，也就是無量的光明境界了。

喜靈洲的家世，起源於一個專爲痲瘋病人療養的荒島，「荒」是香港雖然近在咫尺，但是生人勿近，迷信的人不要提起它，健康的人不要行近它，這裏是一座殘酷的牢獄，白日漫長的可怕，因爲那有人氣的城邑，可望却不可得，黑夜更長，惡夢頻頻，這些流放的月夜，也是慘黯悲愁的。

但這是三十年前的舊事了。喜靈洲痲瘋院爲基督教會所創辦，他們不斷把最新有特效的醫藥搬到島上來，其中有一種，叫做「愛」，配方的成份是犧牲、憐憫、忍耐、信念——奇蹟以絕望始，希望終——痲瘋人一個一個的痊癒了，他們回到有親人的地方，不再受唾罵。

喜靈洲的可愛感人處，便在於此。今天，在山路的盡頭，有座小禮拜堂，那十字架閃耀在白雲青竹之間，宣告這個島嶼是神聖的，先前的醜惡已經過去了，島上的建築全部是中國色彩，有工場、學校、農舍、低低的灰磚牆，綠瓦簷，紅對聯，安靜地躺在那無盡的山野中。微風送過石榴的香味，葡萄藤自由地伸展蔓延。「你看見那棵龍眼樹麼？」有個人聲說。余艷芳說：「我一向對喜靈洲的印象是消極的，甚至恐怖。但是現在才知道愛的力量，可以戰勝死亡。」她有點內疚。

「聖經舊約時代的癲瘋病是不潔的，耶穌基督來了，他使這些不幸的人潔淨。」我說：「有一次他醫好了十個患大癲瘋的人，祇有一個回來向他感謝，耶穌問：『還有九個呢？』」聽說喜靈洲的醫療設備遲早都沒有繼續存在的必要了，這就是福音的高潮！心靈上被腐蝕的人，比肉體上的朽壞更可怕，為何不來求居於你附近的「喜靈洲」？

祝福那些甘心爲人類疾病獻身的人，我偷看過他們殘舊的行囊，裏面有一副診聽筒，一本聖經……（未完待續）

眾議院移民小組公聽

嚴懲僱主案

(本報訊)自從美

國國會眾議員勞定奴和艾博在國會提出H R第九八二號議案後。眾議院的移民、公民及國際法小組(簡稱移民小組)一連續舉行公聽，聽取司法部長官及其他議員的意見。這一議案內容主要是對聘用非法外人的僱主施以重罰(請參閱四月二日東西報)。

控制非法外人的辦法就是嚴懲僱主，使非法外人無法找到工作。蕭氏說一九七四年國會定移民數額為三十九萬四千八百人，但移民局估計有七十八萬八千人非法入境，非法外人數目竟為合法移民兩倍。蕭氏復指出非法外人五大害：(一)搶去美國公民之職位，(二)與少數民族低薪之勞工爭職位，(三)降低美國

美報評

文化交流

波士頓出版的基督教科學箴言報在四月三日刊出社論，對中國藝術團延期來美及中美文化交流表示意見，我們特譯出這篇題為「毛先生不要急躁」一文以供

讀者參考。
「我們不能怪責中國利用藝人到美國來作政治宣傳。但中、美關係委員會之反對他們加入以解放台灣為主題的歌唱節目，這一措施亦是合理的。」
與共產國家互作文化交流，其間難免滲入政治意味，但在文化交流活動上予以政治化的情形之下，難免尖銳地刺激當地的人心、民情、與上海公報中所揭示的文化交流的主旨有所抵觸。

延遲中國藝術團來美演出雖然可惜，但並不致影響整個的文化交流計劃。最近將有一隊美國的田徑隊前往中國，而中國的文物，於華盛頓展覽完畢之後，又繼續在堪薩斯城展出。

依照上海公報所揭示，文化交流應該是互惠的，對雙方都有好處。但美國却沒有得到什麼好處，像中國許多以解放台灣為主旨的刊物，能夠在美國的書店中公開發售，而美國的報刊，却不能進入中國的市場。

尼克遜之訪問北京，距現在已經三年了，如果謀求中、美關係的發展(我們希望能夠發展)，彼此間就需要有互相禮讓的精神，要有更廣泛、更深入的交流，間接性的互派代表團

，作用是有限的。應該是不可能的。亦即是說，在美國學者可以在中國作長時間的學習和研究，而中國人亦可以絕無問題地前來美國的大學從事研究。
但實際上說，除非台灣問題能夠解決，否則，以上所說的發展是「(于姜譯)」
